Ikeja – A policeman, Insp Kinanee Jacob, on Tuesday told an Ikeja High Court in Lagos how a 14-year-old boy, Oliver Arakwe, was allegedly tortured to death by his employers, Elochukwu and Chiamaka Nnajofofor.

Jacob was testifying in the murder trial of Elochukwu (40) and Chiamaka (26) before Justice Lateefat Okunnu.

Jacob, who was being led in evidence by Ms Olaide Eboda, Deputy Director, Directorate of Public Prosecution, said that the deceased was one of the three domestic servants of the Nnajofofors.

The witness said that Arakwe died on Aug. 17, 2010 at the Eko General Hospital, Surulere, after he was allegedly tortured and beaten by Chiamaka for “misbehaving”.

He said: “The matter was transferred from Ago/Okota Police Station, Isolo to the Homicide Section, State CID, Yaba.

“During our investigation, it was discovered that Chiamaka actually tortured the deceased.

“When we got to the crime scene, we discovered that he was kept in the toilet for two days.

“He was then brought out and asked to wash some clothes but he could not perform the task because he was very weak”.

According to him, this angered Chiamaka who then instructed another domestic-servant named Emmanuel, to flog him.

“When she discovered that Emmanuel was not flogging the deceased, she took a belt, tied him with a chain to the toilet bowl and beat him till he lost consciousness,” Jacob alleged.

Jacob said that she later rushed the boy to the hospital, where she allegedly told the doctor that she “just saw the boy on the road”.

The witness said that Arakwe died before the doctor could start treatment, and his body was transferred to the mortuary of the Lagos State University Teaching Hospital (LASUTH), Ikeja.

He said that the police recovered a chain,

This is a grade "1" murder because the boy is underage, just 14. Both of them should be sentenced to death so that they could see how painful death is.

Why do they adjourned the case to to April 30 when justice can be pronouns now. See, by doing that, we are giving them the opportunity of running up and down to THOSE STUPID that can save them from the problem. Oliver, REST IN PEACE when will all this so called big men and women who still practice slave trade with fellow nigerians spend their monies in buying laundry machines, hire professional chef and leave the poor man's children alone to struggle through education or learn a trade/job instead of enslaving them as house boys and house girls to be abused in different ways thus reducing or removing any atom of dignity by poverty. In a civilized country, this couple are going to serve enough time, and for sure they will be made to spend their life savings in burying this boy. BUT in Nigeria all i can say is RIP boy.

Both husband and wife should be locked up for life, and if possible, the man should be hanged, and the woman should be jailed for life!

With Justice Lateefat Okunnu, Chiamaka will go to jail i can bet it with anybody only I dont know how many years she will bag for, at this point if any lawyer stood for Chiamaka the lawyer will not tell her the truth of the matter because the lawyer also knew that they will jail her for this brutal killing of a young boy.
