KANO—About 60 people were feared dead, yesterday evening, in Kano when a suicide bomber attacked a bus park located at Sabon Gari, a predominantly Christian quarters.

The blast reportedly destroyed several buses while soldiers and policemen cordoned off the area after the blast.

The Chairman, Ohanaeze Ndigbo, Kano, Chief Tobias Idika told Vanguard on phone that, “the incident occurred around 5.00 pm when activities at the park were at their peak. So far we have counted 60 human bodies burnt to ashes from five luxury buses affected by the blast. Eye witnesses gave conflicting accounts of how the explosion occurred.

An account said “the blast occurred as five fully loaded buses were moving towards the exit gate at the park when an unidentified individual driving a Golf Volkswagen car in an opposite direction rammed into the buses resulting in an explosion. The suicide bomber died instantly.”

According to Chief Idiaka, “all the five buses have been reduced to ashes by the impact of the blast, and scores of others with high degree burns have been taken to Government hospital. Casualty figures might rise if what I have seen so far is anything to go by.

“We saw it coming and we informed the relevant authority to provide security for us in Sabon Gari but it fell on deaf ears”, he lamented.

Idika who was in tears further said: “I cannot comprehend that human lives can be wasted like this; it is a horrible scene to behold and the fire service are trying their best to put off the inferno within and around the park”.

Another eyewitness told Vanguard that “an Improvised Explosive Device went off in one of the five buses going out of the park by 5.00pm”, adding that “there are heightened fears that none of the passengers survived the blast.”

The Sabon Gari blast triggered pandemonium in the state capital as shops were hurriedly shut down in fear of possible looting by hoodlums.

The Joint Military Taskforce confirmed the blast. Spokesman of the Military outfit, Captain Ikediche Iweha told Vanguard that “we have moved in to the scene of the blast and we are trying to restore confidence to forestall looting.”

Captain Iweha explained that “we have invited men from Fire Service Department to put off the fire triggered by the blast and dozens were down by the impact of the blast. Our priority now is to secure the area and we do not have the casualty figure because we have not started counting. Investigation has commenced on the incident and that will reveal what happened, and how it happened”.

Jonathan condemns blast

President Goodluck Ebele Jonathan has condemned in strong terms, yesterday’s bomb blasts in Kano. The President said the barbaric incident will not deter the Federal Government from its strong-willed determination to overcome those who do not mean well for this nation. He said the Federal Government will not be stampeded, for any reason whatsoever, into abandoning its unrelenting war against terrorists in the country.

President Jonathan reassured Nigerians and foreigners in the country that the Nigerian Government will continue to do all that is required to ensure the safety of lives and property, including continued collaboration with local and international partners and stakeholders to check the menace of terrorism.

The Igbo people should continue to die in the North, just because they want to make money. I see that you are making the money, but can't live to spend it. Of what use for man to gain the whole world and lose his life.

The Igbo should learn to trade mainly in the Southern, Western, and Eastern regions, if they don't want to die like useless dogs. Vacate the Northern region and let them continue to kill their own people. But if they follow you to the South or the South West, then the country is ready to break into two. We know that all Muslims are not terrorists, but all terrorists are Muslim.

If you think its only Igbo people they are after to destroy, then you got all wrong. They are after christians in general, they also kill northerners that are christians. I can tell you that its not only igbos that do business in kano, other tribes do. You cant propose that all christians should vacate Kano or any other northern state for only muslims to occupy, its not possible. Even in the so called muslim countries or states, christians still reside there.

Bomb blast in Kano....Nigeria must separate.
People get killed in Maiduguri....Nigeria must separate.
People get kidnapped in Enugu...Igbos are bad people.
Man kills woman in Yorubaland...Yorubas are ritualists.

Instead of recycling the same old tired tribalist lines....CAN WE HAVE A DISCUSSION ON HOW TO IMPROVE LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Because if we split Nigeria...

North disintergrates into big Somali-type messhole as rival islamist gangs fight for supremacy

South disintegrates as Eboes, Yaribas and so on fight over oil wealth.

All the while...by implementing simple changes to our law enforcement policy..things could have changed.

The strongest point in these comment is that Nigeria is a forced marriage and as such will break up sooner or later. I blame any southerner who continued to live in Kano since the advent of boko haram and waited until he died of the motor park bombing. Even without official splitting of the country, southerners should have been wise enough to leave north.

“We saw it coming and we informed the relevant authority to provide security for us in Sabon Gari but it fell on deaf ears”, And as usual, the presidency and his governing team are now making promises. There is nothing like prevention in Nigeria. What we have is medicine after death. Until now, our borders are still porous, the security men have no way of tracking down communication among terrorists, there is no bank for the finger prints of Nigerians, our governors do not know the house address of their citizens and their residents. Yet we pretend to be fighting terrorism. Security is all about information and communication: know where and how every citizen is living. It makes little sense putting a thousand soldiers on patrol.

Nothing you (bh) do will sabotage this centennial celebration. The queen has been invited already. She will come play some polo with the emir of kano and all will be good.

Who cares if you all kill yourselves! Screw you all. Keep all that your shit in kano, maiduguri, aba, owerri, mbaize, ijebu-igbo and warri. If you bring it near abuja again, we'll show you all how law enforcement works. yeye people.

Yet some useless Southerners will pitch their tent with ACN, CPC and ANPP laden with Jihadists, Islamists and fundamentalists, all in the name of raw politics to seize (hijack) political-power and Islamize secular Nigeria.

Really, what are these Nigerians crying for now? That Boko Haram Islamic terrorists have blown apart innocent Nigerians in bomb blasts? NONSENSE!

I'm Just wondering, what is the possibility of operation "NO VOTING" in 2015 if Nigeria is not either divided or a round table discussion on the

As we grieve for our loved ones, I plead that we do not ethnicize this tragedy. While logically we must assume that majority of the casualties are Igbos, other tribes (especially those in the South) lost people too. Ethnicisation and tribalism are the major tools our owners (the 100 families that control Nigeria Corruption Incorporated) use to divide us.

The Northern Moslem youths (aka Boko Haram) sponsored by an aging Northern political and military class have been speaking to the South and the Middle North for the past five years with their bombs. Their message is clear - they five years that when someone's message is clear – they want a separate country.

It is time the South and the Middle North replies - not with bombs (we are not barbarians and most of us fear God and cherish human lives) but with our pens. What prevents Southern youths and those from the Middle North from organizing? Such organization will not support any political

The hausa-fulani and Yoroba jihadists and oligarchs who ruled nigerian since 1960 (for 50 years - half a century) and ran it aground through corrupt exploitation of South-East and South-South Oil while instigating economic strangulation policies and killing those from oil producing areas (balewa, Gowon, Awolowo, Obasanjo, Shagari, Buhari, Abacha Abdulsallami etc) have already ethnicised Nigeria for too long and too deeply. It cannot be redeemed as a nation because it was never one.

I appreciate your position. I lost 3 uncles and many of my friends in the unjust program and war (1966-1970).

But, we cannot fight alone. We castigate other tribes to our detriment. If we are being honest, their leaders (and I dare say some Igbo leaders) contributed to that mess. More than 99% of Nigerians are good people.

We must work together or we can continue with our anger - incidentally, that is how the less than 1% ruling you and me want matters to remain.

There are Christians in the South and in the North. Remember, I am not against peaceful separation if that is what the majority decides. What I am advocating is to start a

It is only a tree that heard about plan to kill it that remains where it is but tell a man he will be killed, he will run away. Southern business man, quest for money will destroy you. You pay tax to them, you employ them, you feed them and do many things for them and they thank you with lethal bomb. Sorry for all of you. Look at how the so called Chairman Ohaneze was talking about such a magnitude criminal assault as if it is a mere incident. You can not advise these people to go them because the place is not safe. How can you do that when probably you are eyeing one lucre gain or another. Now people have died for no reason and all we shall be gearing is their soull rest-----

The BH are not ready to stop all these killing and bombing. Lets split this country and have peace of mind. I blame Jonathan for all these, because hes the commader but he continue to play with innocent people life. This is pdp hand work. I hope the presidency understands that with the prevailing insecurity particularly in the north, 2015 election will be inconclusive. Whether this president runs or not, he is already running us into trouble. I doubt whether he has the courage and capacity to call for a national conference to discuss our union. I hope he understands that abuse of state pardon will not work this time.

Mumunathan's senseless insistence on dialogue with murderers is yielding fruit. This is the promise he made in September last year in Anambra State that Nigerians will start enjoying his administration from 2013. Expectedly, he describes the incident as barbaric, not knowing that he is more barbaric than Boko Haram. Only God knows how naive he was when Shagari wiped out Maitatsine or why Yar'Adua clamped down on Boko Haram in 2009. Not knowing that he has a duty to protect law-abiding citizens, he hobnobs with all sorts of criminals. He is a good case for trial by ICC.

They are known by our leaders in Aso rock, by those in the PDP, by emirs, by hausa/fulani leaders whom are bitter that it is not their man that holds power. But sadly our leaders have chosen to play politics with this and lace it up with religion. GEJ might be incompetent that is true but these immoral people have chosen to make life difficult for GEJ as much as possible thereby giving covert/tactic support to the activities of boko haram. Sen.Ali Ndume knows boko haram, he was in contact with them and is facing charges yet same GEJ sat in the same room with him in the name of Borno elders seeking for peace, what peace will a man with terrorist links bring? Kabiru Sokoto was arrested in a lodge of a state government from the north in asokoro, recently the JTF recovered arems and bomb making materials from a politicians house in Kaduna, there are people who know and fund boko haram living in Nigeria.
