As 28 are killed in terror attacks...Insurgents hit bank, police station, prisons

Barely four days after the bombings in Kano which left scores dead, gunmen struck in Adamawa State.

At the end of the attack, late Friday, no fewer than 25 persons, including a former commissioner in old Gongola State, were feared dead.

Scene of attack was the headquarters of Ganye local government.

The suspected insurgents hit Adamawa just as another suicide attack was foiled by security agents in Kano yesterday.

Only the two suicide bombers involved in the attack were, however, killed.

Gunmen also shot dead a security guard in Maiduguri, Borno State capital, yesterday, bringing the death toll from suspected terror attacks at the weekend to 28.

The other highlight of the Adamawa incident was that the gunmen, who carried out the operation, attacked a bank, a police station and a prisons facility where some inmates were said to have been freed.

Some relaxation centers and hotels, a source said, were also hit. The bulk of those killed were said to have been shot during the attack on the relaxation centers and hotels.

Adamawa killings

Eye witnesses said the attackers first struck at the divisional police station which was set ablaze before proceeding to the prisons where the inmates were set free and the building also set on fire. The attack, according to the eyewitnesses, which took the residents by surprise, began moments after the last Muslim prayers, Isha'i. The attackers were shouting, "Allah is Great, Allah is Great", as they marched round the town unchallenged. At the bank, the assailants were reported to have used dynamites to pull down parts of the building before gaining entrance into the banking hall and the strong room.

At press time, there was no confirmation of the amount of money stolen from the bank but reports said the amount could run into millions of Naira. Almost all the hotels and other relaxation joints in the town were set ablaze and ransacked, even as fun seekers ran helter skelter for dear lives.

Sunday Vanguard learnt that most of the casualties were recorded in the relaxation centres as the attackers opened fire sporadically on people seen to be patronizing the drinking joints and their owners. Adamawa State Police Command confirmed the incident. The command's public relations officer, PPRO Mohammed Ibrahim (SP), said military and police personnel had been dispatched to the area. Also, the Comptroller of Prisons in charge of Adamawa State, Mr. Andrew Barka, confirmed the ransacking of Ganye Prisons, but failed to give further details. Ganye local government council shares border with the Republic of Cameroon.

Wheel barrow bombers

In Kano, operatives of military Joint Task-Force (JTF), yesterday morning, allegedly foiled the attempt by two suicide bombers to blow up the counter terrorism personnel manning a checkpoint, leaving the bombers dead.

Security sources said the bombers had disguised as water vendors pushing through a wheel barrow loaded with high caliber Improvised Explosive Device (IED) and were approaching the checkpoint located at the Eastern bypass by the petrol mega station when they were ordered to stop. They allegedly refused.

The source stated that the military personnel, who appeared curious about the 'water vendors,' shot and killed the two suspects instantly, while a shot fired at the wheel barrow resulted in a deafening explosion that unsettled the restive commercial city forcing residents to retreat to the comfort of their homes.

Sunday Vanguard learnt that the JTF immediately cordoned off the scene and mobilized men and heavy weaponry there.

Confirming the incident, the Kano State Police Command stated that four people were arrested within the vicinity.

The Command, in a statement by the state police commissioner, Alhaji Musa Daura, said investigations had commenced to ascertain

Death in black spot

In the Maiduguri attack, gunmen, suspected to be members of Boko Haram, attacked the Kaleri ward residence of a businessman, Alhaji Umar Ali Adam Kolo, and shot dead his chief security officer at about 1.45pm yesterday.

Kaleri ward of the metropolis, according to (JTF) sources, is one of the eight black spot areas of Boko Haram in the Borno State capital.

The chief security officer, according to an eyewitness, was trailed to his duty post at the compound on a tricycle immediately after the afternoon mosque prayers, and shot in the head and chest. He slumped and died on the spot.

The eye witness said the suspects came through the Shehuri North areas, before riding into the Kaleri ward on a tricycle, chanting: “God is great! God is great!,” in Arabic language, before they shot and killed the security guard.

A resident said the security guard was early this year issued a threat letter to vacate his duty post of protecting his boss.

The JTF spokesman in Borno State, Lieutenant Colonel Sagir Musa, and the police image maker, DSP Gideon Jubrin, could not be reached as their phones were all switched off at the time of going to press.

Major crisis? Who needs stinkin' major crises?! They don't call 'em "revolution" for nothin'! It's indoctrination!!!

Reeeeeaaaaa!!!! Nigerians should believe in Jesus Christ or Mohammed, oppose abortion and gay marriage, be without arms, and remain hopelessly--and stubbornly--ignorant about absolutely everything...except football and Religion

I know nobody is again concerned about condition of NYSC from the Southern part of the country who are still serving in the North .Somebody should be there to tell President .Somebody should be there to tell NYSC from President Jonathan, should anything happen to NYSC from the South again, his pre-occupation right now for second term will be an illusion.

From accountancy to zoology, it is common knowledge that when a policy is seen to have failed, another policy is thought out as a replacement. The present policy about boko haram has clearly failed. A revised policy is called for.

My worry is the type of religion that allows adherents to go kill after worship. I have no pity for any Ibo killed in the north. The rest of the south believe it is the turn of Ibos to be killed to appease the gods of 'one nigeria'. Nigeria is cursed. Believe it or not. We can continue to play the ostrich. Time is running out. A national conference to agree on how to go our separate ways is the lasting solution. Sudan and Southern Sudan are gradually making progress separately. These satanic muslims have never lived peacefully with any other religion in history. So what is wrong with us that we can't see beyond cheap oil money?

'ONCE THERE WAS A COUNTRY', the military would have intervened to protect lives and properties. Not that those operatives of military Joint Task-Force (JTF) are not battle ready but their job may not be that easy. They have to navigate between the innocence and the guilt, while 'faceless' B/H has the element of surprise plus their hide & seek attitude--blending with the general population. One "source stated that a military personnel, who appeared curious about two suspected wheel barrow 'water vendors, shot and killed them instantly". Now that was a lucky guess. What if...

In the 'KANO BOMBING: One survivor described "I packed my intestines with my cloth". That was gory.

I know Sabo-Gari, Kano are predominated by Ibos/ other nonindigenes searching for their daily bread. "Over 60 innocent souls were killed in Kano bus park bombing".

Barely four days after the bombings in Kano, gunmen struck in Adamawa State killing & maiming more than 28

I pray and hope they listen to you. To them everything is force / gra-gra. Even USA will tell you that when it comes to terrorism - all options are on the table, including dialogue.

The fish starts to rot from the head. GEJ is the sponsor and head of Boko Haram, that is why he begged USA not to classify Boko Haram as a terrorist organisation, because he knows that he will be unmasked if that should happen.

Every finger points to GEJ, but some people in their evil machinations will pretend not to know what is going on.

Nigeria is doomed under this PDP government.

Aaaaah. All these and the "President" does not know how to handle the situation. The strongest countries have never been able to win religious wars. Northern Ireland still smoulders. Jonathan, America has left Iraq and are leaving Afghanistan. Whenever the killers kill an American, a drone will douse them with death. It is the message: they want virgins in hell, send them there! Jonathan: LET THOSE PEOPLE GO!!!!!! When they come to attack the middlebelt and south, it will be easier to fight them. We can't win the war, sitting and eating with them, and then they come back and kill us.

STATE POLICE.

This Boko haram insurgency is the right excuse for state governments to train, and arm their citizens to protect such states. They should not look face of federal government on this one.

I am not talking yeye vigilante or militia groups here, I am talking about proud and decent citizens of the states being, well trained, well armed uniformed police, complete with every facet of standard police operations and procedures, with CCTV camera control rooms, air police, traffic police and state border control.

If the fear is that governors will misuse state police (which seems to be the one recurring argument), then a clause should be put in to law to allow only federal police to marshal elections across the country.

It appears like since the removal and demise of Azazi, only Boko haram has been having the ability to gather intelligence reports and act accordingly. It may not be surprising. The intelligence arm of Nigerian security at all levels might have been unwittingly handed over to the boko haramists. One nijeria, here we come.

How can anyone who believes in allah stop those killing people while shouting "allah is great". It is common sense.

They are fully on the rampage, who can stop them, moreso when their inmates from the prison have joined them on a revenge mission. Such freed prison inmates are even more deadly as they have nothing to live for. However until the people stop shielding these murderers, from arrest and prosecution, death and more deaths shall be visited on them on a daily basis. If they are not Ghosts as GEJ rightly put it, why are their own people hiding them

If the Ibos move out, there are many pple who are ready to step into their shoes to do d businesses d ibos are doing now. Most other Nigerians are sleeping, but U may truly wake dem up from slumber. U don't need any exceptional skill at all to do wat d Ibos are doing now, moreso, with their notoriety for fake drugs, sub-standard spare parts and other goods, all inferior and sub-standard products.

U may not realise dis, but other Nigerians r now getting into d businesses d Ibos have been doing monopolistically successfully, and they sell original products. I don't want to mention them, but if U do move around Lagos and Abuja, U will observe dem.

U are saying what is not realisable, even under the present unfortunate circumstances. And dis may actually be counter productive to d lbo's interest.

Igbos in the north should come home for what? Do they believe in Biafra actualization? No, rather they believed in one Nigeria which prompted them to embarked on massive investment over the north.

They should remain there & form ECOMOG to defend themselves & their investments, this looming war must be fought over the north & South west. Coming back with empty handed to do what after ignoring several warning Ikemba gave Igbos to stop investing outside Igbo land. They must stay put & fight to finish.

Its better we divide this country than to keep on having scores of death everyday. The oga on top might have security personnel attach to them but I no one day..it will get to them...I still maintain, let the right thing be done..its a free life, since they want to practice islam, give them their state to do that cause one day, MOssobo and others will state their own..then they will be no resting place both in North and East...God Bless The Dead.

See how you are reasoning, nobody hold anybody o, any corner of Nigeria is free to practice any kind of politics or religion they want.

Bayelsa is already preparing, they now have their own flag, coat of arms and state anthem.....nobody can say jack.

Our various state houses of assembly are just sitting there, being redundant, when they should be working with their state governments to fashion out infrastructures for their respective states.

The governors are just as bad, they know how to hire thugs for pre-election campaigning, but don't know how to raise a police force to protect its citizens.

This Boko haram insurgency is the right excuse for state governments to train, and arm their citizens to protect such states.

The truth is that major crisis is looming in the country of my birth,Nigeria.It will consume many incl. those who formed this foot-soldiers & others who refuse to speak out when it's necessary.

Sourthern families in the north should face the realities of time and start heading home asap.No nation in history has ever quenched an Islamic extremism not fmr India-Pakistan-

Bangladash,Yemen,Egypt,Sudan,Somalia,Afghanistan...not Nigeria with their deep-rooted level of corruption, a nation that lies against itself,a nation that can't even pay their security men/women, a nation that has no borders, a nation that can't even differentiate who's their citizen or not,a nation that has neither power nor modern security modalities, that will defend you.

I actually wonder why people think the govt. is winning since these same creeks have alwaysed been bombing ,killing & setting their colleques free from prison.Nigeria actually has no security but chronic corruption would not let them be honest to this fact.

35 ^ | v Reply Share ›

ehigie → kelvin99 • 3 months ago

The truth is that no nation of corrupt foundation like the countries you mention above were able to stop this sect which Nigeria our mother land is not left out as a corrupt Nation too, but in countries like France, England and in the US were successful in the fight against terrorism in their domain, the season was that together they fought to eradicate this syndrome because a good program was laid down to fight this group before they grow wings as it was not part of their system.

^ | v Reply Share ›

kelvin99 → ehigie • 3 months ago

I appreciate the point ur making but those nations you rightly mentioned fought external terrorism,this doesn't mean that they went sleeping on their intl security.Even great nation are scared of fighting an intl terrorism esp when its a combo of intl.terrorism & religious extremism,thats why India had to path ways with the trio of India-Pakistan-Bangladesh and Israel had to build walls to besiege Gaza & we all are testimonies that its working .

Don't quote me wrong ,I would've been optimistic of our winning the war only if BH are actually from Chad,Niger rep.Sudan,Mali,so we can simply barricade our international borders but if otherwise it can never stop ,even if you grant amnesty other groups will spring up demanding amnesty too & people who lost loved ones/limbs/properties from the heinous acts would never forgive this nation.
