

Vanguard

Homework Light
Provides 70 hours of continuous light

www.solarway.com
info@solarway.com

BREAKING NEWS

TRANSLATE:::

Select Language ▼

Auto crash: Another ASUU member buried in A'ibom

on December 11, 2013 / in News 12:00 am / Comments

By Emeka Mamah

LAGOS—Another member of the Academic Staff Union of Universities, ASUU, Prof. Ufot Ibanga, who died on his way to attend a meeting aimed at finding solutions to the six months national strike by the union, has been buried.

Ibanga, a former Dean, School of Postgraduate studies, University of Jos, died in an auto crash at Hawan Kibo on Jos – Keffi Road on July 8, 2013, while on his way to Abuja to honour an invitation by the National Universities Commission, NUC, on the ASUU strike.

The former ASUU official taught Sociology at the university. He was buried in his village, Ikot Akama, Oruk Anam Local Government Area, of Akwa Ibom State, weekend.

Talking Point

Finally the cock crowed for Madiba

TIME was about 10:30 pm Nigerian time and

Insurance and You

Energy infrastructure to get $50m boost

The Alternative Investment arm

Conference Hall

We must get the CONFAB modalities right

Remember that Ethiopia used to

Features

Contracts review and the rot in roads infrastructure

No nation can effectively

Femi Aribisala

The day of my resurrection from the dead by Femi Aribisala

Dispatches from America

Wanted: A Nigerian political Floyd Mayweather
My colleague and