Robbers kill APC leader in Lagos

on January 22, 2014 / in News 12:10 am / Comments

LAGOS — The ex-Chairman of the All Progressives Grand Alliance, APGA, whose party aligned with two others to form the All Progressives Congress, APC, Mr Akeem Arowolo Jimoh, has been killed by gunmen suspected to be robbers.

Sources said he was shot dead at his residence on Kelani Street, off Adealu Street, Dopemu in Agege Local Government Area of Lagos State, early Sunday morning.

The robbers who stormed the area at about 2 a.m. ransacked his residence but were said not to have found anything valuable in the house.

After about an hour operation, the ex-APGA boss was shot for not having money at home to give them.

It was learnt that the politician, who was well known in the area, died instantly.

It was reliably gathered that the robbers raided eight other houses in the area leaving many people injured.

The late Akeem has been buried accordance with Islamic injunctions.
