Family of 18-yr-old boy killed over girl suspects foul play

By Esther Onyegbula

THE step-father of late Eniola Toyin, has called on Lagos State Police Command to investigate his son's death. Toyin was allegedly murdered during a clash between two suspected cult groups at Kuramo.

According to the step-father of the deceased, who spoke on behalf of the bereaved family, "the allegation that Toyin is a cultist is extremely unbelievable to the family.

"We know Toyin to be a very outgoing person and passionate about his job. Although sometimes he could stay for a week at Lekki, before coming home to Ikorodu for the weekend, we never knew him as a cultist as he never behaved as one.

"He was never into girls. He was a fine young man. I just wonder why he chose to fight over a girl when there are so many he could have chosen from. This is an action orchestrated by hate. The police must investigate this matter to find out what truly happened."

Vanguard learned that 18-year-old Toyin, who lived in Ikorodu, but worked as a mechanic at Kuramo, Jakande, Lekki, died over a love affair with one Yetunde.

Yetunde also had a lover (names withheld) who is a member of Eiyee cult group, while Toyin was said to be a member of Aye cult group.

Toyin was allegedly killed when members of both groups clashed over the love affair.
