

monizing such institutions can be counter productive to our cast aspersion on the same institution when we don't get the propaganda to sacrifice the state on the altar of partisan politics.

Two Electric workers electrocuted in Lagos

TWO Ikeja Electric workers were yesterday electrocuted at Kogberegbe Street in Isolo, Lagos while carrying out their duties. It was gathered that one of the victims died in the incident while the other is in critical condition in an unnamed hospital. An eye witness who pleaded anonymity explained that the dead victim was electrocuted while trying to clear a fault on a pole in order to restore electricity supply to the area.

"His colleague attempted to rescue him but was also electrocuted in the process," an eye witness informed our correspondent," the eye witness said. He pointed out that the surviving victim has been stabilised in the hospital and is responding to treatment.

