A yet-to-be identified middle-aged man has been reportedly killed, while three others were injured during a minor fracas at Berger Suya area of Lagos State, yesterday.

Vanguard gathered that trouble started at about 10a.m., after a middle-aged man, identified as Friday Momoh, urinated beside a parked truck.

It was learned that the victim allegedly confronted Friday, who he had initially warned not to urinate beside the truck because of the offensive stench.

The confrontation degenerated into a brawl between both men leading to Friday attacking the victim with a broken bottle.

When Vanguard got to the scene of the incidents, shops were under lock and key as traders deserted their shops, while policemen led by the Divisional Police Officer from Trinity Division were seen trying to restore normalcy.

Vanguard learned that the victim's corpse had been deposited in the morgue, while the injured victims have been taken to the hospita
