

To answer your question, precisely in February, I received a distress call that one of our brothers, Mr. Francis Akpeni, who was a farmer and hunter, had gone to his farm, and that the community was looking for him. This went on for days until they found him on the fifth day. His remains were already decomposing with bullet wounds and machete cuts all over his body. Around the area they found him, there were footprints of cows.