BAUCHI— There was outrage, yesterday, at Gwallam Student Village, Bauchi State when a dog was found abandoned at a refuse dump.

Vanguard reports that several of such incidents have been recorded in the area with this coming less than four months after the lifeless body of a new born baby in a polythene bag was found at a refuse dump in the same area.

It was learnt that the incident attracted many people to the scene.

An eye witness, who only gave his name as Isaiah, said: "I was coming back from church when I saw many people behind a house away from ours. I became curious and went to see what was happening there.

"What I saw there was disgusting and annoying. I saw a new born baby at a refuse dump and a dog was f

"From the look of things and from what I heard people abandoned alive but was killed by the dog.

"How can someone do this to an innocent child? How with such levity? It's so bad and inhumane."

He said some of the onlookers dug a shallow pit and baby just beside the refuse site.

Contacted on phone, the traditional Chief of Gwallan confirmed the incident, saying he was not at the scene.

He said: "I got a call from someone informing me of the person that I was not around. When I called the nurse Wakilin Sarkin Gwallameji (representative of the chief Mohammed, was already there.

"Since he was there, I continued with what I was doing to handle everything well. As I speak with you now, I have information on the incident."

Efforts to get comment from the Police were fruitless as several calls put through to the mobile phone of the Acting Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), Bauchi State Command, Haruna Mohammed, failed.
