

Bus crushes man dead in Enugu

ON JULY 6, 2017 2:58 AM / IN NEWS / COMMENTS

By Chinedu Adonu

ENUGU—A driver that crushed a pedestrian to death was saved by policemen from Trans Ekulu Division of Enugu State Command, Monday, from a mob, which set his commercial bus ablaze.

It was learned that the bus, with number plates AFK 249 XA, loaded with passengers and luggage, was heading towards Trans-Ekulu when he lost control at about 4p.m. before hitting the pedestrian.

Confirming the incident, Enugu State Police Public Relations Officer, Mr. Ebere Amaraizu, disclosed that the mob was set for action when Police got wind of the unfortunate incident and rushed to the scene immediately.

Amaraizu also disclosed that the pedestrian was an artisan, whose name was given as Chukwu.

Although he did not disclose the vehicle's owners, it was gathered that the bus belongs to a popular transport company in the state.

Man in trouble as lover dies in Enugu hotel room

One Joel of Enugu State is currently undergoing interrogation in the hands of detectives from Enugu State Police Command as to what led to the death of a lady identified June 9, 2017

Gun battle: Police urge Enugu residents to report anybody with gunshot wound

May 19, 2017

5 burnt to death in Enugu auto crash

March 2, 2017

