About 96 others, who were involved in the crash, are receiving treatment at Plateau State Specialist Hospital, where Governor Simon Lalong paid them a visit while touring facilities in the hospital.

Proprietress of the school, Reverend Sister Florence Golam, who was seen calming the frightened children, said she had no details of the accident.

She said the Headmaster, who can say what transpired, could not be reached.

Parents of the pupils thronged the hospital premises, while staff were attending to the injured in the casualty ward.
