ASABA—POLICE in Delta State have shot dead an infamous bandit, Fidelis Enege, and also nabbed three suspected gangsters, Otojareri, Tega and Ovwriho, recently released from prison for a different robbery operation at Jesse town, Ethiope West Local Government Area.

Commissioner of Police, Delta State Command, Muhammad Mustafa, who confirmed the two incidents to Vanguard, said: “In the course of trailing gang members behind the attack and murder of Francis Ogodo at Umusama Road, Kwale, on June 20, operatives ran into a gang led by one Fidelis Enege, a notorious Berga cultist, murderer and robbery suspect, who hitherto remained elusive.

“In the ensuing gun battle, the suspect sustained gunshot injury on his left leg. One locally-made cut-to-size gun with an expended cartridge were recovered from him.”

Regarding the arrest of the three suspects recently released from prison, Mustafa said: “Reacting to a distress call that one Christopher Ohwari of Asoro Street, Jesse town, was being attacked by hoodlums, a patrol team raced to the scene and dislodged the hoodlums.
