MAIDUGURI—Boko Haram insurgents on trucks with mounted guns and motorcycles, Wednesday night, attacked four communities in Konduga Local Government Area of Borno State killing about 13 people and sacked two villages.

It was also gathered that the insurgents launched rocket attacks and forced their way into an Internally Displaced Persons, IDPs, camp on the outskirts of Maiduguri.

An eyewitness, who gave his name simply as Alhaji Modu, disclosed that an Islamic cleric together with his wife and three children were burnt to death when the insurgents sacked their home at Bularin IDP Camp.

Alfred Audu, a member of a militia, known as Civilian Joint Task Force, who claimed he was on duty at the time of the attack, said the insurgents engaged troops in a bid to force their way into the communities.
