

Armed robbers killed house wife, not herdsmen

— Police

THE Enugu State Command of the Nigeria Police Force has said that armed robbers killed a house wife in Enugu and abducted a cleric and not herdsmen as reported yesterday in a story titled "Herdsmen kill Enugu house wife, abduct cleric". The Command said investigation revealed that the unfortunate murder that occurred at Amofia Affa in Udi Local Government Area of Enugu State was as a result of attack by Armed Robbers and not Herdsmen as was erroneously reported. The Command said that it "has commenced a full scale investigations into the alleged incident of Armed Robbery, and wishes to reassure the public that the perpetrators of this heinous act will be apprehended and be brought to book. The criminal incident is unfortunate and we are not resting on oars towards unmasking and arresting perpetrators of the crime. Meanwhile, the body of the deceased person identified as one Paulina has been deposited in a nearby hospital mortuary for autopsy. It was gathered that the armed men had allegedly emerged from the bush and attacked their victims who were attending a funeral ceremony dispossessing them of their valuables."

Buhari to Public Officials: Keep trust or quit

PRESIDENT Muhammad Buhari has warned public officials, particularly those elected and appointed into office, that they must keep public trust or leave.

The President's Senior Special Assistant on Media and Publicity, Malam Garba Shehu, in a statement, said Buhari gave the warning during a courtesy visit to the palace of Emir of Katsina, Alhaji Abdulmumini Kabir, on Thursday.

The president was in Katsina for the grand finale of the APC presidential campaign rally before the elections on Saturday, having visited all the states including the Federal Capital Territory (FCT). President Buhari said: "Those who betray the people's trust, we will not spare them, they would be fished out and dealt with."

He also told the Emir and members of the Emirate Council that the promises he made before his election in 2015 had been met, adding with certainty that all he needed was a second term and would not ask for more.

"There is hope in the future of this great country," the President added.

He, however, appealed to all Nigerians to ensure peaceful conduct of the election. The President highlighted his administration's achievements in infrastructure development including improved power supply, as well as empowering artisans, craftsmen, tailors, barbers and battery chargers to increase output and better their own lives.

"The local production of rice and the increased agricultural production have helped the country to achieve food self-sufficiency," he said.

The President thanked the people of his home state for the "unprecedented" turnout of men and women from both rural and urban areas and the intensity of support shown by them.
