

Killing of Korean at LADOL Free Zone, deliberate — Samsung

By Gabriel Olawale

SAMSUNG Heavy Industries Nigeria, SHIN, has come up with video evidence, which they said showed that the shooting of a Korean employee at LADOL free zone by an operative of Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps, NSCDC, was not in error.

Speaking with journalists, Managing Director of SHIN, Jejin Jeon, said L A D O L guard fired deliberately at his NSCDC colleague, killing him with three shots at the scene, before moving away to a different location where he also deliberately shot the Korean employee that had been working in a crawler crane within the SHI-MCI yard.

Jeon, who also showed journalists video evidence of the incident to back his claim, stated that the statement by the Commandant-General of NSCDC, Mohammed Gana, that the NSCDC guard opened fire "in error" was also false, insisting that the shooting was a deliberate and unprovoked attack.

He recalled that after the killings, the gunman then made his way to the front gate of the SHI-MCI yard where he threatened SHI-MCI's unarmed guards and demanded to pass the gate, adding that the shootings could not have been accidental.

He also faulted the press statement by LADOL where it claimed that the Korean employee was in a "stable condition," when the employee had already died.

According to him, the Korean employee was never in a stable condition as his injuries were life-threatening, adding that he was in a critical condition from the moment he was shot until the moment he died.
