

Robbers in Ibadan raid estate, kill 'whistle blower'

ON MAY 5, 2019 10:56 AMIN NEWS3 COMMENTS

By Newman Babson

Residents of Omifunfem Estate, Ibadan, Oyo State capital, yesterday, woke up to sporadic shooting by a gang of armed robbers who left with an unspecified amount of money and killed a 'whistle blower' who was accused of disturbance.

Adamu Mohammed, Police

An eye witness said the hoodlums, numbering about 10, were infuriated by the action of a businessman who was said to be shouting and blowing whistle that robbers had invaded the estate.

The hoodlums were reported to have concentrated on the residence of the 60-year-old 'whistle blower', identified as Chief Abayomi Robert, and shot him dead

The robbers also carted away telephone sets and electronics belonging to him and members of his family.

Sri Lanka names Easter suicide bombers

Security guards watching over the estate were reported to have fled immediately the robbers arrived the community.

The marauders dared any bold person in the community to come out and challenge them and lose his life, one of the residents told Sunday Vanguard..

The body of the slain businessman was said to have been taken to the nearest morgue.

The incident was allegedly reported at Ojoo-Igbooloyin Police Division which was said to be investigating the matter.

Oyo State Police Command spokesman, Superintendent Gbenga Fadeyi, said he had not received a report on the incident. He promised to call back.

He could not be reached when our man tried to call him back.

It was learnt that some night guards in the area have been invited by the police for questioning.

Related

One dies as policemen, Agbekoyas clash in Ibadan

November 23, 2016

Ikoyi Whistle-blower's cash: Lawyers, different men fight for N850m reward

November 15, 2017

