A 26-year-old student of Delta State Polytechnic, Otefe Oghara, Ochuko Frank, has been macheted to death by suspected cultists, weekend.

A source at the community, who craved anonymity, said Frank, who sat for examinations on Friday went to see a lecturer, who had sent for him in a hotel in the community "and he was returning when he was attacked by a group of men with cutlasses and axes."

The source added that after he was killed they dumped his body somewhere in the community.

Another source, who simply called himself Awweroso, said Frank was a member of a cult and was dating a girl, who is also dating another cultist, "they almost fought in school some time ago. So I think his death is a cult-related issue."

Contacted, spokesman for Delta State Police Command, Onome Onowakpoyeya, confirmed the report, saying: "A young man at the Polytechnic, Otefe Oghara was killed and the police are investigating the killing."
