

1 killed, as bandits attack Amotekun in Oyo

By Ola Ajayi

I BADAN—SOME personnel of the Oyo State Security Network, code-named Amotekun, Corps, have been attacked by bandits, killing a member of the security outfit, in Oyo State.

The victim, whose name was given as Sulaiman Quadri, was hacked to death by hoodlums, who stormed the Atiba Local Government Area of the state.

Vanguard reliably gathered that the bandits, numbering about 11, invaded a farm, Living Farms, which is located at Fiditi Town, in the Oyo community.

The Amotekun corps were said to have provided security for the staff of the farm.

When the bandits struck, it was Quadri who was shot dead, while his colleague, Amoo Yisau, sustained life-threatening injuries.

He was said to have been rushed to the General Hospital, Oyo, where he is receiving treatment.

When contacted, Oyo State Commandant of Amotekun Corps, Col. Olayinka Olayanju (retd), confirmed the incident saying "One of our operatives in Amotekun Oyo State, Suleiman Quadir (25 years) of Atiba Local Government was killed in an ambush by a group of armed bandits numbering 11 at Living Farms in Fiditi on Tuesday, 20th April 2021.

"Amo Quadir and his colleague, Amo Bello Yisau, were escorting the staff of the farm to the farm when it was invaded by the armed bandits. Amo Yisau too was caught by rounds of bullets but he survived and is receiving treatment at the General Hospital Owode Oyo.

"The gallant, Suleiman Quadir, left behind an aged father, a wife and a son. He has since been buried according to Islamic rites."
