ABEOKUTA— A 47-year-old woman, Olanshile Nasirudeen, has been arrested by the Ogun State Police Command for allegedly stabbing her 51-year-old husband, Jimoh Nasirudeen, to death for impregnating another woman.

The command Public Relations Officer, DSP Abimbola Oyeyemi, who disclosed this, yesterday, in Abeokuta, said the suspect was arrested following a distress call received by the DPO, Obalende Divisional Headquarters, Ijebu Ode, that the suspect, who is a co butcher with the deceased, sighted a woman who her husband recently impregnated at the abattoir and she started questioning the woman about her audacity to get pregnant for her husband.

Oyeyemi said: "That led to a hot argument between her and the deceased, as a result of which the suspect picked a knife and stabbed the deceased at the back joint of his left leg, thereby, cutting one of his veins.

"He was rushed to a nearby hospital for first aid and later transferred to Ijebu Ode General Hospital where he eventually died while receiving treatment, due to excessive bleeding.

"Upon the distress call, the DPO, Obalende division, SP Murphy Salami, led his men to the scene, but the suspect had taken to flight before their arrival.

"She was traced and eventually arrested in her hideout at Mobalufon area of Ijebu Ode.

"On interrogation, the suspect, who happened to be the fourth wife of the deceased, claimed that it was her husband who first slapped her simply because she asked his new wife her mission at her market stand.

"The corpse of the deceased had been released to the family for burial under Islamic rites after the autopsy has been conducted on it."

Meanwhile, the state Commissioner of Police, Edward Ajogun, has ordered the immediate transfer of the suspect to the Homicide Section of the State Criminal Investigation and Intelligence Department, for discreet investigation and prosecution.
