SAHEED Olabomi, 30, who was shot by a mobile policeman has died after three days in coma at the Uniosun Teaching Hospital, Osogbo.

Saheed was shot by a policeman on Tuesday who was shooting sporadically into the air after arresting a tipper driver who was alleged to be causing traffic along Old Oba road in the state capital.

According to the deceased's elder brother, Olabomi Mojeed, Saheed died at 8:15pm on Thursday.

He added that the deceased's mother has also been hospitalized as a result of shock, following the news of her son's death.

Mojeed said, "He died about 8:15 PM yesterday. When Saheed's mother heard about his demise her health deteriorated and she had been taken to hospital.

"The family is sad over the matter. The wife of Saheed and relatives have been crying since yesterday. The family is aggrieved with the police, we don't want to see any police officer here. Saheed has a wife and two children. He was the one taking care of his mother. "The family is yet to make any official statement over my brother's death. The Aragbiji of Iragbiji land is involved in the matter because we are of the same family. The family is having a meeting with the monarch now", he said.
