

85-year-old man 'killed' by relatives in Ogun

By James Ogunnaike

AN 85-year-old man, Jimoh Oladiran, has been reportedly killed by some persons alleged to be his relatives, a father and his son in Ogun State.

Oladiran, a resident of Somorin Alagbonmeta in Obantoko area of Abeokuta, Ogun State, was allegedly lured by the relatives to Asipa village for an unknown event on Saturday, March 12, 2022.

It was further gathered that in the evening, the children of the late old man became worried when their father did not return home from Asipa, a village located after Opeji, in Odeda Local Government Area of the state.

On Sunday, the children said they went to the village, but they did not see their father.

On enquiry, the deceased was said to have gone to a neighbouring village.

However, they later discovered their father's dead body beside a small river, covered with a rusty roofing sheet.
