

Police arrest 4 over lynching, burning of sound engineer in Lekki

By Esther Onyegbula

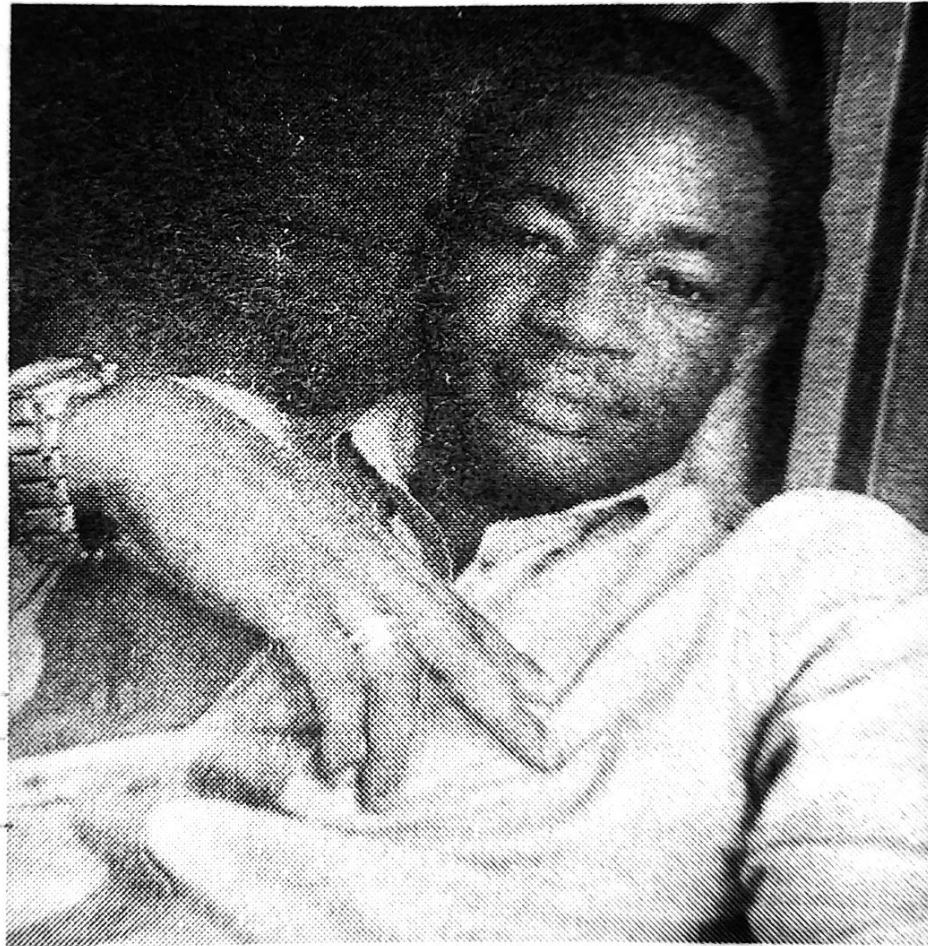

FOUR persons allegedly involved in the lynching and burning of a Lagos-based sound engineer identified as Dave at Admiralty Way, Lekki Phase One area of Lagos have been arrested by police operatives.

According to reports, the father of two was attacked, lynched by commercial motorcyclists, Thursday night.

It was gathered that Dave and his friend boarded a bike from Ikate to NEPA Junction (Lekki) on their way for a show where they were meant to set up sound.

A source said when they alighted from the bike, the bike man didn't give Dave his N100 change leading to a disagreement with the bike man.

However, trouble started when the bike man called his brothers and colleagues, who allegedly pounced on Dave and his friend.

The late Dave.

They were beaten to pulp, unfortunately, the sound engineer lost his life on the spot and was set ablaze by the mob.

Confirming the arrest, the spokesperson of Lagos state Police Command, Benjamin Hundeyin, said: "I can authoritatively confirm that all the perpetrators of this heinous crime have been arrested. They will all be prosecuted. Say no to jungle justice."