I killed Fatinoye couple, son, for refusing to increase my salary — Prime suspect

By James Ogunnaike,
Abeokuta

The prime suspect in the gruesome murder of the late couple, Kehinde and Bukola Fatinoye has confessed to being the mastermind of the dastardly act.

The suspect, Lekan Adekanbi equally said that he organized robbery operation to forcefully get money from the late couple after they refused to increase his salary and grant him a loan request.

Adekanbi, who had been the couple's driver since 2018 explained that he invited two others, Ahmed Odetola a.k.a Akamo, and Waheed Adeniyi a.k.a Koffi to join him in robbing the couple.

Adekanbi, who spoke after he was paraded at the State Police Command headquarters, Eleweran, Abeokuta, said "I took the step because the couple refused to increase my salary, and when I approached them for a loan to buy a motorcycle, they didn't oblige."

Narrating how the deadly act was carried out, Adekanbi said that he and his two accomplices waited for the couple to come back from crossover service since he had access to the house and they pounced on them immediately they entered the house. He added that they had access to the house despite a security dog put at the gate because the dog was familiar with him as he was the person who always fed it.

He said, having got hold of the couple, they forced the husband, Kehinde Fatinoye to transfer money from his account to the "Kuda" bank account of Ahmed Odetola, but the transfer failed.

"Since that failed, I gave the deceased my Access Bank account to which the sum of N1,102,000 (One million one hundred and two thousand) was transferred at gunpoint. When I realized that my identity had been known through my bank account, I decided with others to terminate the lives of the couple. That was when Waheed Adeniyi a.k.a Koffi took a knife from their kitchen and slaughtered the husband Kehinde Fatinoye, while I used sledge hammer to hit the wife Bukola Fatinoye on the head and she died on the spot."
