

Soldier allegedly kills hoodlum for disrupting voting in Kogi

A suspected hoodlum popularly known as Ojochenemi Atidoga was yesterday stabbed to death by a soldier for disrupting the ongoing election at Open Space University Village polling unit, Anyigba, Dekina Local Government Area of Kogi State.

Before the incident, the hoodlum was said to be on a rampage threatening to kill anybody who votes for any other party than the All Progressives Congress, APC.

Many voters, who were not APC supporters, had to scamper for safety.

Through the intervention of Military men on election duty, he was caught, beaten, and stabbed in the lap and was later left on the floor, where he bled to death.

A series of chaos however followed after the soldiers left the polling unit.

Okada riders allegedly invaded the polling unit and destroyed election materials and made way with his corpse to an unknown destination.

Election cancelled in 7 PUs in Kogi

Also, aside from the initial technical hitches regarding the BVAS machine, the exercise was conducted peacefully across the state.

Electoral officials and materials also arrived earlier but