

METRO

June 16, 2023

Ibadan Poly female student hacked to death; eyes plucked out

HOME NEWS 2023 ELECTIONS POLITICS METRO BUSINESS SPORTS EDITORIAL COLUMNS ALLURE E-EDITION

(ND) 2 Mass Communication student was found dead in her room with matchet cuts and her eyes plucked out.

The student, simply identified as Dasola was among those writing the ongoing first-semester examination in the school.

As of the time of filing this report, the circumstances surrounding her murder are still not known.

Related News

Islamisation comment: EL-Rufai should be invited by DSS — MBF

FOREX: Allow customers free access to domiciliary account funds, CBN orders banks

CBN issues additional FX guidelines; medicals, BTA/PTA to be sourced at I&E window

Vanguard gathered that late Dasola's friend, her coursemate, who did not see her around to sit for the examination on Thursday, went to her house, around the Ile Idibo area and found her door locked from outside suggesting that no one was inside the room.

It was learnt that some of her neighbours who were her mates were perceiving a terrible odour and decided to look around and while peeping through her window, they found her body lying lifeless.

They reportedly raised an alarm which attracted attention from those around.

It was gathered that the school's management had been alerted and hurriedly suspended the ongoing examination for a day as a sign of respect for the deceased's soul.

However, the Eruwa Police Division has been informed and arranged for the evacuation of the corpse from the room to be deposited at the General Hospital, Eruwa, while police commenced an investigation to fish out her killers.

MORE TOP STORIES

Oil thieves not hidden, must be invited for talks to end oil bunkering — Tonye Cole

South Africans suffer shortage of water over epileptic power supply

Real Madrid sign Joselu on loan from Espanyol