

Fears in Warri As Soldiers Revenge Colleague's Killing

by Ifidon Janet

Big Story News April 3, 2020 |

Reports from Warri, the oil city in Delta State indicate that there are fears in the town following a military exercise said to be aimed at a revenge over the killing of a soldier by some youths on Thursday. Earlier reports had showed that the residents went on rampage after an army personnel killed a young man for disobeying the lockdown orders by the federal government.

soldiers

The deceased identified as Joseph Pessu, a father-of-two, was shot dead on 2nd of April, 2020, by a soldier at Ada Val Arenyenka street, along the Ugbuwangue axis of the NPA Expressway, Warri. He was said to be headed to a pharmacy shop with a purpose to procuring drugs for his pregnant wife.

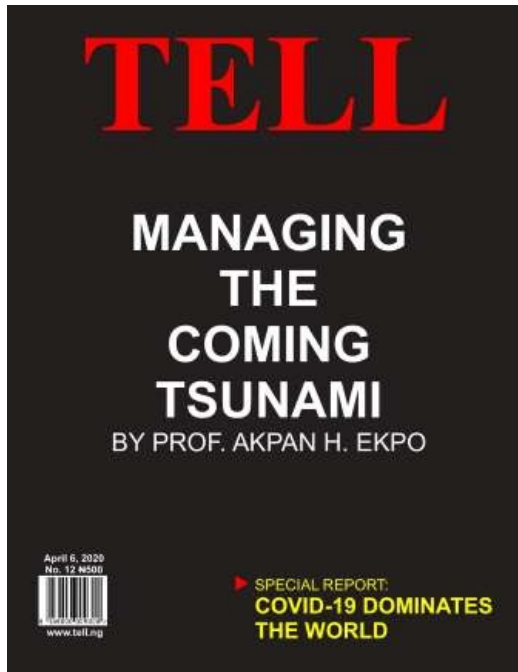

It was not immediately clear what transpired as he fell to the soldier's bullet, youth around the area who witnessed it descended on the soldiers and killed one of them.

The reaction of soldiers has brought uneasy to the town.

English

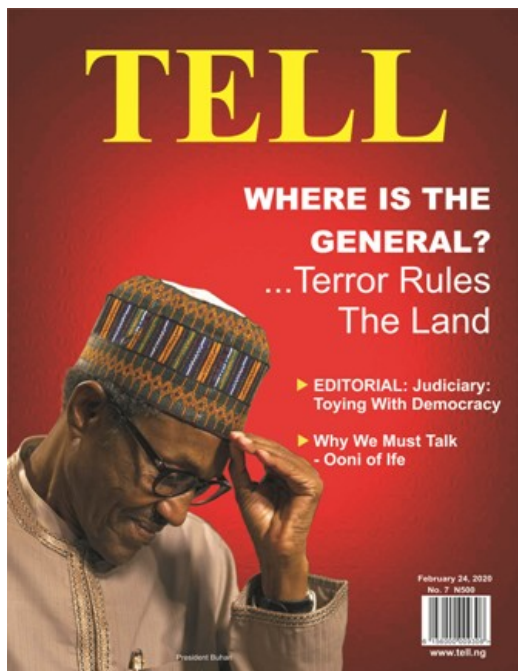

WhatsApp us

Managing The Coming Tsunami – Prof. Akpan H. Ekpo
₦300.00

The Story Of The Rebel King
₦300.00

Where Is The General?...Terror Rules The Land
₦300.00

Related Posts: